

Things to do in Los Angeles this Saturday

Let the brunching commence with our guide to the best things to do this Saturday

Who has a hangover-fueled appetite and loves brunch? We do. But we also love greeting the morning with a hike or shopping the afternoon away at a sample sale. However you choose to spend your Saturday, you'll find plenty of things to do in LA.

The return of the WestEdge Design Fair brings interior design-lovers some of the best modern furniture and home accessories to date to the masses. The three-day event will feature 150 exhibiting brands that will showcase their designs in lighting, kitchen, bath, outdoor furnishing and other home products. Shop the various designs and attend a series of special events and notable discussions, panels and workshops to learn how to decorate the home with good taste. Looking to celebrate and shop a day earlier? On Thursday, attend the opening night party ($95) to benefit the Los Angeles Ronald McDonald House. Sip on cocktails and nibble on hors d'oeuvres while having first access to the fair.
